Completely redesigned, we've added more images, enhanced the graphics, and provided clear and enjoyable ways to navigate the incredible amount of information about PB and his teachings. There are quick links to the popular online Notebooks of Paul Brunton and the PB Archives website.

This long overdue upgrade of the PBPF website automatically adjusts itself to whatever kind of computer you use to browse—your phone, tablet, or laptop. We are grateful to Cyrus Company (inquiry@clubcyrus.com) for their excellent web design!

Beauty as a Spiritual Path: The Transformative Power of the Arts

https://youtu.be/j0gWy42FwP4?si=YXg6DF_vFsDnmh85

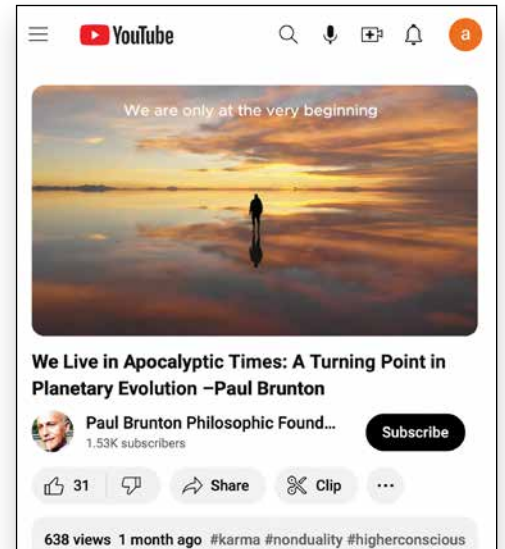

Beauty has its own holiness: anyone who is susceptible to beauty in the arts has a ready-made spiritual path, one rarely described. Paul Brunton, considered an authority on the range and methodologies of various spiritual paths, here describes how we can use aesthetic appreciation to penetrate inward to our deeper reality.

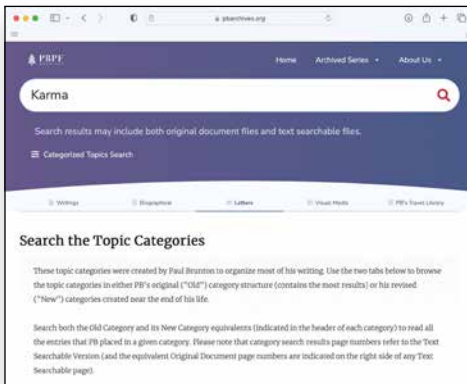

We Live in Apocalyptic Times: A Turning Point in Planetary Evolution

Decades ago, Paul Brunton described our extraordinary times as a unique turning point in human and world evolution. He describes the subtle-level forces at play, both benign and evil, and provides both context and advice for seekers living through the unfoldment of these significant and challenging world events.

Try Our New, Streamlined PB Archives' Search Function

Near the end of his life, PB prepared his philosophic writings, biographical information, letters, photographs, and his library for preservation (and selective publication). This task has been accomplished: the original documents are permanently housed at Cornell University, and can also be studied online. As one might imagine, having a good search engine is essential to thoroughly explore this online material. Recently, the PBPf redesigned and streamlined how the search function works. There is both a keyword search as well as a category search of PB's 28 topics into which he placed his philosophic writings. Please explore www.PBarchives.org!

PB on Technology and the Quest—
Spiritual teaching must be expounded today in a form suited to the modern need. The doctrines so revealed should be methodically progressive and the explanations should be systematically developed.

Your interest in the Foundation's work is deeply appreciated.
