Dear Friends of PBPF,

New Paperback Edition Available November 24th!

A Search in Secret Egypt*, published by North Atlantic Books

In A Search in Secret Egypt, Paul Brunton experiences the mysteries and magic of Egypt in the 1930s. He explores Egypt's mysticism, temples, and gods for their spiritual significance—including an illuminating and eerie night alone inside the Great Pyramid. Brunton seeks to plumb the furthest reaches of which the mind and body are capable, and to distinguish various forms of yoga and magic—and how they differ from true spirituality, a spirituality that in ancient Egypt was dramatically encountered in the initiation rites performed in its temples for qualified aspirants. There are 108 photos and illustrations in the new edition!

“At last, my concentrated consciousness lay in the head alone, and there was a final mad whirl within my brain. I had the sensation of being caught up in a tropical whirlwind and seemed to pass upwards through a narrow hole; then there was a momentary dread of being launched in infinite space, I leapt into the unknown—and I was Free!

No other word will express the delightful sense of liberation which then became mine. I had changed into a mental being, a creature of thought and feeling yet without the clogging handicap of the heavy flesh body in which I had been shut up. I had gone ghost-like clean out of my earthly body, like a dead man rising out of his tomb, but had certainly gone into no sort of unconsciousness. My sense of existence in fact, was intensely more vivid than before.”

My Reminiscences of PB, by S.S. Gopalkrishnan, B.A., a former Indian secretary to PB. This is a personal account of someone who assisted PB in India. It is a wonderful close-up view of PB’s life as he worked in his bungalow, meditated, and met dignitaries.

PB’s Research (with Comments) What many people who have read PB are unlikely to know is that he extensively researched the writings of others. His recommended reading list would fill a small library! This compilation of PB research is a labor of love by Timothy Smith, our Archive Project Chair. When not deeply involved in managing the many aspects of preparing, digitizing, proofing, and organizing the vast PB archive, Timothy is compiling information about 2,000+ authorities and personalities PB researched or met who are referenced by PB in his writings. Especially interesting are PB’s comments about these people and their views.
