The Complete Archives of Paul Brunton, Now Available Online at www.PBarchives.org

We are thrilled to announce that the complete digital archives of PB are now available for you to browse and study from the convenience of your computer, tablet, and smart phone! When Paul Brunton died in 1981, he left a large literary and personal legacy. This archive has become available to the public in both the physical original and now digital form due to many years of effort by PBPF archivist Timothy Smith and his staff. In 2018, Cornell University acquired the physical collection of original documents which are now available to read in Cornell's Division of Rare and Manuscript Collections (Carl A. Kroch Library) on campus. The archive website contains all these original documents as well as a text searchable version of most of the files!

There are five major series in The Archives of Paul Brunton:

1. Paul Brunton’s Philosophic Writing
28,000 pages of mostly unpublished writings, created mostly during the last 30 years of his life, as well as published articles, research notes, interviews with teachers, and personal writing.

2. Excerpts from the writings of PB

3. (1) The tendency to assume that the spiritual man was perfect in his youth and never made a mistake in his maturity, is common among his followers and passed on by them to the public with the result that the latter sees him at the age of 40 as a pure phenomenon but does not dream that it is possible to follow in his footsteps to the same achievement. The truth is that he had his share of struggles and failures that he bore with his own particular imperfections and that he had to make the character and expand the consciousness which formed his later years.

4. (66) My relationships with the body were rewarding and with it the world and its affairs.

5. (65) It is more than seventy years since I came to this planet. The move was a foolish one, for I knew now that it was more curiously mocked as a search after knowledge. For I exchanged a tranquil existence for a troubled one. All manner of spiritual things fade.
Biographical and Secondary Materials

A wonderfully rich section of journals written by people close to PB as well as official documents, publishing paperwork, information he kept about his family and friends, and a small selection of his extensive newspaper clipping collection.

Letters

Over 10,000 pages of letters to PB from acquaintances, friends, family (many to and from his son, Kenneth), and readers of his books.

PB’s Travel Library

Articles and books that PB valued enough to bring with him on his travels.
Visual Media

Approximately 4000 photos, negatives, and other images from PB’s life and travels, with dates and location information where available.

Announcing a New PB YouTube Channel

The Paul Brunton Philosophical Foundation is delighted to announce the inauguration of a bi-lingual, English-Portuguese YouTube channel that will feature bi-weekly teachings, stories, and experiences relating to PB and his writings. You can subscribe here: https://youtu.be/3D-oENmG05c

The Paul Brunton YouTube channel is being developed by Micha-El and Gran Berkowitz with the help of a Brazilian team of collaborators and the financial support of the PBPF.
